1979 - A Year Of Sadness And Promise For Coffee County

The following is a look backward at 1979, and some of the events occurring in, or affecting the people of, the city of Elba:

JANUARY

4 The first baby of the year in Elba is April Suzanne Thornton. She is the daughter of Donna and Dennis Thornton, who reside in the Powell Trailer Park.

11 The citizens of Elba are faced with an increase in electric rates, following the monthly meeting of the Elba Water and Electric Board. The higher rates will amount to 4.4 cents per unit of electricity (a new method of billing).

18 When Fob James was sworn in as the Governor of Alabama on Monday, January 15, it marked a "new beginning" in politics for the state, and it also marked the end of the Wallace era.

25 Brooks' Cafe, a popular restaurant across the street from Dorsey Trailers, was robbed on Wednesday, January 17, by a lone gunman who left with over $250. The gunman eluded an extensive manhunt by local police, sheriff's deputies and state troopers, shortly after the robbery.

FEBRUARY

1 Circuit Judge Terry L. Butts has awarded a record $7.5 million in damages in a lawsuit which was filed after a flash-fire in 1977 severely burned six employees of Dorsey Trailers.

8 A $1½ million expansion program for the Elba General Hospital and Nursing Home was shown to the Elba City Council on Tuesday night and was unanimously approved by the city fathers.

15 The Coffee County Commission met on Monday before a packed courtroom in Elba, and voted to request the county legislative delegation to sponsor a bill authorizing the Commission to impose a 1-cent county sales tax to be used for the construction of a jail and courthouse in Enterprise, and the renovation of the jail and courthouse in Elba.

22 Miss Beverly Hargrove, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lenord Hargrove, and a senior at Elba High School, was awarded a $25 Savings Bond for winning first place in an oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion.

MARCH

1 Lynn Whitehurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Whitehurst, of Elba, was named Queen of the Rattlesnake Rodeo last Friday night in Opp. There were over a dozen Elba girls in the 34-girl contest.

8 The well-liked sheriff of Coffee County, C.F. "Neil" Grantham, was shot dead early Thursday morning in a blaze of bullets from a .38-caliber pistol. Arrested shortly after the shooting and charged with 1st-degree murder was Billy Joe Magwood of Rt. 4, Elba.

15 Brice R. Paul was named late Friday to serve the unexpired term of the late Coffee County Sheriff Neil Grantham. The appointment was made by Gov. Fob James, and Paul will serve the remaining 45 months of the term.

22 The Elba City School Board has prepared a master plan for the construction of a new high school and junior high school. The cost of the new facility would be $1,599,300.

29 Mrs. Linda Boyce and Mr. William Bruce, Jr., were selected as Elba's Woman and Man of the Year Saturday night at the Pilot Club's fifth annual awards banquet.

APRIL

5 The Elba City Council met on Tuesday night and clashed with the mayor over the "emergency need" for a new garbage truck. Only two bids were received on the truck by Mayor Folsom, and the Council suggested he get bids from several suppliers.

12 George Collier, president of Dorsey Trailers, Inc., announced yesterday that Paul E. King has been promoted to the position of Director of Manufacturing. King replaces David A. Logan, who recently resigned.

19 The long-rumored expansion of the Elba Shopping Center became official this week when partners Drexel Cook and Mack Wise announced a 5,000-square foot expansion that will completely finish filling the center.

26 Groundbreaking was held for the New Brockton Elementary School on Monday, April 23. The school will cover 26,000 square feet and will house students in kindergarten through the sixth grade.

MAY

3 Miss Rachelle Bozeman was crowned Miss Elba for 1979-80 in activities last Thursday night. Rachelle is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Bozeman.

10 Johnny James Knighton, black male, age 29, is in the Coffee County jail charged with the beating death of his 21-year-old wife in the early morning hours Saturday.

17 The Elba Division Grand Jury was highly critical of the fact that the Coffee County Commissioners have continually ignored mandates of past Grand Juries, and pointed to leaking roofs that had been prevalent for four years.

24 After 29 years service with the U.S. Postal Service, Mr. G.O. (Ted) Prescott has retired. He had been a rural carrier on routes 1, 2, 3 and 4.

31 Christopher Columbus Daniels, a 57-year-old New Hope resident, was found murdered in his home Thursday morning. Officers from the Sheriff's Department report the man had been beaten about the head, and the hammer believed to be the murder weapon was found in the house.

JUNE

7 The first annual "Elba Sports Week" will kick off on Sunday, June 10, with a "Fun Fly-In" at the Elba airport. The week's activities include a fishing rodeo at the county lake, an Archery Tournament and a Men's and Women's Softball Tourney.

14 Three-year-old Sylvia Odessa Cox, daughter of Mrs. Bobby Moore, died on Tuesday morning in a fire that destroyed their mobile home on Highway 11, north of Elba.

21 The trucker's strike and blockade of gasoline terminals has had effects on Elba motorists as well as others. A picture on the front page shows a tanker headed to a local dealer with a state trooper escort.

28 Circuit Judge Riley Green ruled last week that accused murderer, Billy Joe Magwood, appeared to be in need of observation and evaluation by a Commission on Lunacy, and ordered him transferred to Searcy Hospital.

JULY

5 In a court order disclosed on Friday, June 29, U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson, Jr., instructed the Coffee County Board of Education to install Mr. Bob J. Andrews, a black teacher, as the principal of New Hope Junior High School.

11 Lisa Lindsey, daughter of Mrs. Marie Lovorn, was crowned Little Miss Elba from a field of 24 contestants.

12 The fierce thunderstorm that struck Elba last Thursday afternoon caused damage in a number of areas, mostly downed power lines and trees, with some roof damage.

19 Charles Kennett was sworn in this week as a new Elba city councilman. He replaced Mike Russell, who resigned due to his moving to a new home outside the city limits.

26 City water will be available to over 300 additional families within the next 12 months, according to plans approved by the Elba Water and Electric Board. The FHA will underwrite a loan of $790,000 for installation of the water lines and one storage tank.

AUGUST

2 Long months of planning and talking climaxed recently when the FDIC gave official permission for the Elba Exchange Bank to erect a new $1 million facility.

9 Lynn Whitehurst, of Elba, was chosen Miss Coffee County Agriculture in the annual event sponsored by the Coffee County Farm Bureau. Miss Whitehurst is also the reigning Rattlesnake Rodeo Queen.

16 Contributions to the Alabama Sheriffs Boys Ranch have come in from residents around Coffee County, and were presented on August 8 in memory of the late Sheriff Neil Grantham.

23 A late Wednesday statement by District Attorney Joel Folmar revealed that Billy Joe Magwood has been found insane by doctors at Searcy Hospital. An order was issued by Circuit Judge Riley Green committing him until he is able to stand trial.

30 A town meeting was held Tuesday night at the Elba Elementary School to discuss the possibility of building a connector road to connect several highways outside the downtown congestion.

SEPTEMBER

6 A new Elba Grand Jury met this week, and again was critical of the maintenance of the courthouse, jail and other county buildings. The Grand Jury also warned that if no work was done to remedy the situation, indictments would be returned.

13 The Coffee County Commission met on Monday, September 10, in a packed commission room, and heard Commissioner Bennie Beckham tell the county attorneys: "I will look to you to keep us out of jail."

20 Jeffery Zane McDaniel was hospitalized after his truck was involved in a one-vehicle accident after midnight Friday night. His truck overturned after he reportedly drove off the side of the road to avoid hitting an oncoming car in his lane.

27 Deputy State Fire Marshall James Waddell inspected the Coffee County Courthouse in Elba on September 12, and reported the building failed to meet minimum fire codes and regulations.

ALABAMA'S INTEREST

Flexing his intrusive muscles, the Government Regulator has bullied his way into every firm in the nation as an unwanted partner whose daily feasts stifle creativity and jack up prices for all of us.

Created to serve as a reluctant referee stepping in only when clearly needed, the regulatory process has grown out of hand and now intrudes in almost every aspect of our daily lives.

The total cost to the American businessman for these mushrooming regulations is currently estimated at over $100-billion each year. On an individualized basis, that breaks down to a yearly cost of $1,600 for every small businessman in the country, and about $1,200 a year in higher prices for every American family.

In light of this outrageous situation, I have joined with a few of my Senate colleagues in cosponsoring a comprehensive regulatory reform bill geared to put some specific restraints on regulatory activities and to curb the excesses in the process.

This bill, called the Regulatory Flexibility and Administrative Reform Act of 1979, will adequately address a number of the major problem areas that we face in our regulatory system. And, it will provide some tough, but fair, restraints on federal regulators that will protect those hardest hit by today's regulations -- the small businessman and the consumer.

One particularly significant aspect of the bill is that it will require regulatory agencies to publish on a semi-annual basis a listing of all rules being considered, developed or reviewed. In effect, this will serve as an early warning signal to the public so that those who will be most affected by such regulations will have the opportunity to provide some input before a rule has been formalized.

Another aspect of the bill is its requirement that regulatory agencies conduct and furnish comprehensive analyses of proposed regulations, including an examination of the need for such a rule, probable consequences and an explanation of what possible alternatives exist.

Further, this legislation will require agencies to determine how each proposed regulation will affect the different-sized firms involved. The regulators will be charged with tailoring their rules whenever appropriate to fit the scale and the resources of the businesses that must comply.

The measure also lists a number of additional requirements geared to strengthen the oversight of regulatory agencies and to ensure that federal agencies themselves move more effectively and rapidly in abolishing regulations.

I assure you that I am not out to end all regulations. A reasonable regulatory process plays a valuable role in our lives and to achieve some worthwhile goals. But, the regulatory process we have today, with its federal regulators that will protect those hardest hit by today's regulations -- the small businessman and the consumer.

One particularly significant aspect of the bill is that it will require regulatory agencies to publish on a semi-annual basis a listing of all rules being considered, developed or reviewed. In ef-

Reports to the people of Alabama

In Favor of Radio and TV Coverage of SALT Debates

I have introduced a resolution to allow radio and television coverage of the Senate's floor debate on the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

The SALT treaty is one of the most important and controversial treaties in our history and it has sparked unparalleled media and public interest.

SALT is discussed daily in news stories and editorial pages and on radio and television. I can say from visiting each of Alabama's 67 counties this year that this treaty is discussed in churches, schools, homes and on every street corner in America.

The people are vitally interested in SALT. I have found that the people of Alabama are not only interested but knowledgeable about the provisions of the treaty.

Alabama has been following closely the debate on the SALT treaty. They watched the televised Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings and they want to see the floor debate.

The committee hearings were broadcast over both radio and television with great success. The precedent for allowing broadcast coverage of floor action was set when the Panama Canal debates were broadcast over nationwide radio last year. This radio coverage was met with great favor by the American people.

Following this recent successful experiment in radio coverage, I believe the next logical step is to allow full radio and television coverage of the SALT debates. I understand that some Senators are hesitant to allow broadcast coverage because they fear some of their colleagues will "showboat" and play to the television cameras. However, there was little evidence of showboating during either the Panama Canal debates or the Foreign Relations Committee hearings on SALT.

During my term as Chief Justice of the Alabama Supreme Court, the court opened the doors of Alabama's state courts to television cameras. Of course we established guidelines and limitations to safeguard certain constitutional provisions relating to fair trial.

These telecasts of both criminal trials and appellate court proceedings were met with favor by the people and have led to television coverage of trials in other states.

Television coverage of court cases often brings into conflict two constitutional provisions, the first amendment, which guarantees the freedom of the press and the sixth amendment which guarantees the right to a fair and impartial trial.

But no such constitutional conflict comes up when considering televising the SALT debates.

I believe the time has come to open the doors to television cameras and let the people back home watch the SALT debates. The public wants to see the debates and I believe they have that right.

Get The Facts

One of the worst possible things that can happen to an alcoholic is to have a wife who protects him and helps him to hide his drinking. The following story told by a recovering alcoholic illustrates this.

This previously successful man had allowed his drinking to interfere with his business until bills were piling up, creditors were hounding him, and he was bordering on bankruptcy.

His wife had been holding what was left of the business together by nursing him through drinks and hangovers, lying for him, warding off creditors, and bailing him out of jail when necessary. She sided herself with a loyal, faithful wife. Fact! - She was married to an alcoholic.

One particular Monday morning, she had reached the end of her rope. Her nerves were frayed almost as bad as her husband's when the telephone rang. It was another creditor wanting to speak with him about a past due bill.

The husband vividly remembers his wife's end to the conversation. It was a turning point in his life. "She's right here, but you'll probably not be able to get any sense out of him because he's lying on the sofa drunk," the exasperated wife told the irate creditor.

"No, I don't know when he'll be able to pay you. He owes everybody else in town, too, and he only works half the time. The other half he drinks."

"I'm sorry that I can be of help. He got it. He's been sober a number of years now. Had his wife continued to shield and protect him, he might still be drinking."

For information or confidential assistance with alcohol problems, contact your Regional Alcoholism Clinic, P.O. Box 1083, Andalusia, Alabama 36420, phone 222-4955.

He used his one telephone call to ask his previously sweet and understanding wife to come to the jail and bail him out one more time. She not only refused but told the and Sam King, Jr. of Opp; 15 grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren.

O.C. BOSWELL Funeral for O.C. Boswell, 64, of Elba were held Thursday, December 27, 1979 at 10 a.m. from Wise Funeral Home. Burial followed in Evergreen Cemetery with Hayes Funeral Home directing.

SAM KING Funeral for Sam King, 84, of Route 2, Elba was held Wednesday, December 26, 1979 at 11 a.m. from Bethany Primitive Baptist Church with Elder James Donaldson officiating. Burial was in the Danley's Crossroads Cemetery with Hayes Funeral Home directing.

Survivors include his wife, Ethel Mae King of Elba; three daughters, Ada Eiland of Columbus, Georgia, Florence Hall of Opp and Betty Thomas of Winter Garden, Florida; two sons, Charlie King of Phenix City, Alabama.

CATFISH

Marketing Meeting is set for the Community Room at the Extension Office, New Brockton on Tuesday, March 4.

This is going to be more than a meeting! Dr. John Jensen of Auburn will demonstrate catfish harvesting techniques. He and his associates have developed a system whereby about 50-60% of catfish in a pond can be harvested in one operation without draining the pond. Another harvest a week later and you can get almost all of the fish from the pond.

We hope to develop a local market for catfish produced in Coffee County. Those of you who are interested in participating in this meeting and demonstration are urged to get in touch with me at the County Extension Office, New Brockton. After I hear from you, I will send you complete details.

Those wishing further information may call the University of Enrollment Services, 566-3000, extensions 178 or 179.

BLACK-EYED PEAS

A dish commonly served in the South on New Year's Day is black-eyed peas and hog jowls. To many people this means they'll have good health, good luck and prosperity the rest of the year. Others believe the more peas you eat, the more money you'll get.

Women who are full-time homemakers spend, on the average, just over eight hours each day throughout the year. Those employed outside the home work a full eight-hour day on the job, then work five hours at home. That's a 13-hour day.

Things you really want to do and stick to the schedule.

Plan your day. Concentrate on the task at hand. Don't try to do too many things at one time. Recognize and eliminate time thieves, such as day-dreaming and worry.

Divide your day by dividing your time into things that absolutely must be done. Things you really want to do and routine things to do. Be sure to do the jobs that require thinking when you're most alert. And, learn to say no. Evaluate requests. Determine if each is the best use of your time. If you don't make a plan for your time, someone else will.

The proposed improvements consist of ending Alabama Highway 141 at its intersection with Alabama Highway 166, extending Alabama Highway 166 west on new location approximately 240' to an intersection with U.S. Highway 84, and providing turning lanes on U.S. Highway 84.

The purpose of the improvements is to provide a safe highway capable of handling present and future traffic demands through the area.

The State of Alabama Highway Department invites comments and questions from local residents, property owners and interested groups or organizations who wish to be heard on the proposed improvements.

What you're really saying is you want to work on better family relationships.

It's good to recognize when the problems are by looking at the major areas of conflict. But it's easier to work on the problems if you decide on one "key" idea - "better family relationships."

Psychology

Things go better when you're ready for whatever happens.

A good while before an important occasion, inspect the outfit you'll wear. Not having to make frantic, last-minute repairs will help the evening get off to a better start.

Things should also go better in marriage if you're ready for the effects of aging or of occasional stress. To be sure you'll have extra lubrication when you need it to make marital relations more pleasurable, keep greasy, nonirritating, odorless Personal Lubricant on hand.

That's the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress; my God; in him will I trust. Surely he shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noose of the pestilence. He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shall thou trust; his truth shall be thy shield and buckler. Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night, nor for the arrow that flieth by day.

PSALM 91: 1-5

Infant Mortality Conference To Be Held

Sixteen Coffee County residents will join other southeast Alabamians at a one-day conference Thursday, January 10, at the Dothan Sheraton Inn to examine the counties' infant mortality problem.

Mrs. Peggy C. James, of Enterprise, will chair the Coffee County delegation. She will be joined by Mrs. Annette Hammonds, Mrs. Louise Bowers, Mrs. Eva Sharpless, Mrs. Nadean White, Mrs. James Boyce, Mrs. Joe B. Devane and Mrs. Butch Ogas, all of Elba; Mrs. Delores Simmons, Mrs. Nibala Givins, Mrs. Fred Donaldson, Mrs. Alice Strickland and Mrs. J. E. Foster, all of Enterprise; Mrs. Eva Lynn Weeks and Mrs. Helen Burrows and Mrs. Peggy Bowdoin, of New Brockton.

Sponsored by the March of Dimes, this conference was initiated by Dr. David Mathews urged counties to set up a state network of local organizations to deal with the problem. The Dothan conference is the first of these conferences and will include Covington, Dale, Henry, Coffee, Houston, Barbour and Geneva Counties.

"The evidence is very clear that the states that have been effective in reducing infant mortalities are the states that have had good local grass-roots organizations with persons in the city and the county taking an interest in the problem," Mathews said.

The Dothan conference will be moderated by Mathews, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and a member of the Board of Directors of the National Foundation/March of Dimes.

The session will open at 10 a.m. with testimonies from two people who have successfully dealt with the infant mortality problem. After a noon luncheon, each county will meet in individual workshops to discuss and detail possible solutions for their communities. At the conclusion there will be county reports detailing goals for each community.

Medicaid Deletes 400 Drugs

Some prescription drugs for Medicaid recipients in Alabama will no longer be paid for by the state program. The Medicaid program deleted about 400 drugs from its approved list on December 1.

Governor Fob James and Medicaid Administrator Hoke Kerns approved the exclusion of many drugs for blood circulation difficulty, coughs and colds, ulcers and gastrointestinal problems, general pain, and urinary tract infections.

A victim of cerebral palsy in a Birmingham nursing home has had three of his six prescription drugs paid for by Medicaid. As of Saturday, December 1, Medicaid only pays for one of the six. He will not have to pay for the five drugs and his only income is $25.00 per month.

Health Law Specialist Micki Stiller of the Legal Services Corporation of Alabama advised the situation as soon as notified, following the action by Medicaid.

"Alabama's poor, disabled, and elderly people will be drastically affected by this cut-back," she said. "These people who suffer from numerous ailments and illnesses have to do without other necessities, such as food, clothing or shelter, or they will have to stop taking their medication, because they cannot afford to purchase it."

The health law specialist, who has been interviewing clients affected by the drug cutoff, said she believes the Medicaid Services Administration has violated federal regulations by not notifying Medicaid recipients in a timely and adequate manner.

"The Medicaid recipient should first talk to his or her pharmacist and doctor whether another approved drug can be substituted for the one now used," she added.

The doctor can also ask Medicaid for special permission to continue paying for the present medicine, even if it has been removed from the list," Ms. Stiller said.

If further questions are necessary, recipients should contact Micki Stiller, Health Law Specialist, Legal Services Corporation of Alabama, Montgomery, (205) 264-1471.
